

Part 1, Paper 19, The Co-ordin...inity-Origin, Divine Counselor

📅 Wed, Oct 02, 2024 12:23PM ⌚ 9:39

SUMMARY KEYWORDS

Trinity Teacher Sons, Divine Counselors, Universal Censors, Inspired Trinity Spirits, Havona Natives, Paradise Citizens, cosmic order, divine wisdom, celestial hierarchy, spiritual evolution, cosmic roles, cosmic administration, cosmic symphony, spiritual growth, cosmic discovery

SPEAKERS

John, Sarah

John 00:00

Welcome back for another deep dive. Yeah, today we're traveling to the heart of the Urantia books cosmology, okay, specifically, paper 19 right to explore these fascinating beings originating from the paradise Trinity, you want to unravel who these celestial players are, what cosmic roles they fill, and why it matters in the grand scheme of things, I'm with you.

Sarah 00:23

It's like opening a cosmic who's who of the universe. We often talk about the paradise Trinity, but this excerpt gives us a glimpse into its inner circle, so to speak, right?

John 00:32

And there are a lot of intriguing names to unpack here. Yeah. Trinity, teacher, sons, perfectors of wisdom, divine counselors, universal censors, inspired Trinity spirits, havona Natives and Paradise citizens. It's quite a list. It's like a whole celestial organizational chart, it is. And the fact that the

Sarah 00:50

Urantia Book emphasizes that most of these groups have fixed numbers is really interesting. It suggests that even within the vastness of the cosmos, there's this incredible level of order, a deliberate structure to the universe itself. That's a great point. It's easy to imagine the universe as this boundless, ever changing expanse, but the idea that these celestial groups are finite, almost like carefully chosen members of a team, really shifts the perspective, doesn't it?

J John 01:05

S Sarah 01:19

Absolutely now, let's start with the Trinity. Teacher, sons. Okay, what's fascinating about them is that they're the only group originating from the paradise Trinity that's specifically dedicated to working with the divine sonship, those beings tasked with creating and overseeing universes like our own.

J John 01:32

So they're like the ultimate liaisons, bridging the gap between the absolute divinity of the Trinity and the more hands on experiential realms of the Divine sonship. Exactly. It begs the question, why is such a bridge necessary? What does it tell us about the relationship between these two levels of existence? It's a question worth pondering. Yeah, perhaps it highlights that while the paradise Trinity embodies perfection and completeness, there's also a recognition of the value of experience, of the journey that unfolds within creation, the teacher sons then become facilitators of that journey, sharing the wisdom of the Trinity while also learning from the unfolding drama of the cosmos. And to think there are over 21 billion Trinity teacher sons, it's mind boggling. It's mind boggling. Talk about a massive undertaking, speaking of intricate roles, let's move on to what the text calls the perfectors of wisdom, the divine counselors and the universal censors. Okay, these sound like the ultimate administrators of the super universes. They do, don't they? And here's where things get really interesting. The excerpt emphasizes that these beings are wisdom and judgment, not just reflections or representations of those qualities. They embody the very essence of the Trinity's mind and will.

S Sarah 01:51

J John 02:11

S Sarah 02:32

J John 02:48

It's almost as if they are the living embodiment of those aspects of paradise Trinity operating on a cosmic scale. So we're not just talking about wise advisors. We're talking about beings who are wisdom, who are judgment. But how does that actually play out in the grand scheme of the cosmos? Well,

S

Sarah 03:04

take the example of the universal censors. The text mentions that even the ancients of days, those incredibly powerful and ancient beings who govern the destinies of entire super universes, won't pass judgment without a universal censor present.

J

John 03:18

Now, for those who might need a quick refresher, the ancients of days are like the Supreme Court justices of super universes, right? They're practically at the pinnacle of the celestial hierarchy Exactly. So wait a minute, are you saying their decisions aren't final, that even they need some kind of oversight, precisely? And it highlights just how vital the role of the censors is. Their presence ensures absolute impartiality, a level of divine perspective that even the ancients of days, with all their experience and wisdom, might not fully encompass. It's a powerful reminder that even at the highest levels of cosmic administration, there's a recognition of the need for checks and balances, for ensuring that decisions are made with the utmost clarity and wisdom. Indeed, it speaks to the uranti Bos, emphasis on the interconnectedness of all things, the idea that even these seemingly separate groups of celestial beings are part of a larger whole, each playing a vital role in maintaining the harmony and order of the cosmos, it really makes you appreciate the complexity of this cosmic administration. It does. But what about the inspired Trinity spirits? Right? They seem like a bit of a wild card in this whole setup. Yeah, the excerpt even acknowledges that their purpose remains somewhat mysterious, even to other celestial beings. They do, don't they? While the perfectors of wisdom, the divine counselors and the universal censors, have these clearly defined roles and responsibilities, the inspired Trinity spirits operate with a level of subtlety that borders on the enigmatic. The text mentions that even a solitary messenger, a being capable of traversing the vast distances between universes, could sense the presence of an inspired Trinity spirit, but couldn't quite grasp its purpose. That detail always sends a shiver down my spine. It implies. A depth of influence that's beyond our usual comprehension.

S

Sarah 03:33

J

John 03:47

S

Sarah 04:00

J

John 04:16

S

Sarah 04:31

J John 04:43

S Sarah 05:03

It's a fascinating detail, isn't it? And then there's the potential link to the thought adjusters. Oh, right, those fragments of the Father that reside within humans here on Urantia. The Urantia Book merely hints at this connection, but it's one that raises more questions than answers. To think we spend so much time pondering the nature of these celestial beings their roles in the grand scheme of the cosmos, and here we have this possible connection to our own spiritual development. It's a bit like realizing that the seemingly distant stars are actually influencing the tides of our own planet.

J John 05:17

S Sarah 05:34

It's a profound thought, isn't it, if the inspired Trinity spirits are somehow linked to our spiritual evolution. Does that mean we're more directly influenced by the paradise Trinity than we realize are these spirits working in conjunction with the thought adjusters subtly guiding us towards our highest potential? It's certainly a possibility that the excerpt leaves open, and it makes you wonder what other mysteries are hidden within this intricate web of celestial beings in their cosmic roles. Now, before we get too caught up in the enigma of the inspired Trinity spirits, we should touch upon the havona natives and Paradise citizens. Excellent point. These groups, residing in the Central Universe of havona and Paradise itself represent the pinnacle of spiritual attainment. They exist in a state of near divine perfection. Their very beings a testament to the transformative power of the universe's evolutionary journey.

J John 05:51

S Sarah 06:08

J John 06:24

And yet, even within these realms of seemingly absolute perfection, the excerpt hints at the possibility of change. It mentions that the population of havona might actually fluctuate in future universe ages. That throws a real curve ball into our understanding of eternity, doesn't it? It does. We tend to think of eternity as this static state, a realm beyond time and change. But what if, even within eternity, there's this ongoing process of growth, of evolution, of new experiences and possibilities unfolding?

S Sarah 06:40

J John 06:51

It's a mind bending concept, for sure, it suggests that the journey of spiritual growth and cosmic discovery never truly ends, even for those beings who've reached the very heart of creation. And you know, this whole conversation about the ever evolving nature of the cosmos makes me think about the inspired Trinity spirits in a new light. Ah, so Well, we've been so focused on their mysterious nature, the fact that even advanced beings struggle to understand their purpose. But maybe that mystery is part of the point. Maybe their influence is meant to be subtle, to operate below the level of our conscious awareness, prompting us to look deeper, to question our assumptions, to remain open to the infinite possibilities that the universe holds. That's a fascinating perspective. It's like these inspired Trinity spirits are encouraging us to embrace the mystery, to trust in the process, even when we don't have all the answers

S Sarah 07:40

Exactly. It's a reminder that true wisdom isn't about possessing all the knowledge, but about remaining open to the unknown, to the infinite possibilities that lie beyond our current understanding.

J John 07:51

It's a humbling thought, isn't it? Even amidst this grand cosmic tapestry of celestial beings in their intricate roles, we're being invited to play our part, to embark on our own unique journeys of discovery, and it circles back to one of the Urantia book's central themes, doesn't it that the purpose of existence is to grow, to evolve, to become more and more like the first source and sender, and perhaps these inspired Trinity spirits, in their own subtle way, are helping to guide us towards that ultimate goal.

S Sarah 08:03

John 08:18

So where does this leave us? What are some key takeaways from our exploration of these paradise, Trinity, origin beings?

Sarah 08:24

Well, for me, it reinforces the idea that the universe is a place of incredible order and purpose. Even amidst its vastness and complexity, there's a structure here, a hierarchy of beings, each playing a vital role in the grand scheme of things. It's like a cosmic symphony, with each group of beings contributing their unique notes to the music of creation,

John 08:38

Sarah 08:43

precisely, but it's also a symphony that's constantly evolving with new melodies and harmonies emerging as the cosmos continues to unfold, and we as human beings inhabiting this tiny planet on the outskirts of a vast universe are very much a part of that grand symphony. We're not just passive observers in this cosmic drama. We have a role to play, a journey to embark upon, and perhaps with the guidance of those enigmatic, inspired Trinity spirits, a destiny that's more interconnected with the actions of the paradise Trinity than we could ever have imagined. It's a truly awe inspiring thought to end on, don't you think I completely agree? It reminds us that while we may never fully comprehend the intricacies of the cosmos, we are nonetheless an integral part of its unfolding story, and that's something worth reflecting on as we continue our own individual journeys of spiritual growth and cosmic discovery. It certainly is until next time, keep exploring, keep questioning, and remember the universe is full of wonders waiting to be unveiled.

John 08:58

Sarah 09:16

John 09:31