Sarah, John

- S

Sarah 00:00

Angels, right? Like, when I hear that word, I don't know about you, but I kind of get stuck on the typical picture, the wings, the robes, the whole bit, yeah, like halos, harps, you know, the classics. It's kind of funny though, diving into the Urantia Book and it's take on angels, especially these sicana film. It's like
- J

John 00:18

totally different ball game.
- S

Sarah 00:20

It really makes you rethink those common images, huh?
- J

John 00:22

Totally. That's way more, I don't know, cosmic and complex than I ever pictured. What's fascinating about the Urantia Book is how it goes beyond those familiar guardian angel tropes. We're not just talking about, you know, protecting individuals. This is about angelic beings operating at a whole other level.
- S

Sarah 00:27

J John 00:38

Yeah, and it's not just like heavenly level either, right? We're talking super universe level here exactly.

S Sarah 00:42

Super universe level. Okay, gotta admit that already has my brain doing backflips. It's like, how do you even wrap your head around something that massive? Just to be sure we're on the same page, can you remind me what exactly is a super universe in this context?

J John 00:56

So picture this, our galaxy, the Milky Way, just one among billions in our local universe. Nebadon, right, right now a super universe is like this megastructure containing not just our local universe, but countless others, galaxies upon galaxies all connected in this mind boggling expanse. It's tough to even imagine.

S Sarah 01:18

Okay, yeah, I'm officially lost in space now. So we're talking cosmic administration on a scale I can barely comprehend. But what really throws me off is this term sakonaphem. I mean, it doesn't exactly roll off the tongue. What is it about these beings that makes them so special in this mind blowing massive cosmic scheme of things? It's a mouthful, right? But the Urantia books description of them is pretty spot on. They call them living mirrors.

J John 01:35

S Sarah 01:40

Living mirrors. Okay? Now, that's an image I can work with, right?

J John 01:42

What they essentially do is instantaneously reflect thoughts, emotions, even the voice of a being across unbelievable distances. Imagine looking in a mirror, but instead of seeing yourself, you're seeing and hearing the essence of someone 1000s of light years away, instantaneously. Whoa, yeah, it's wild.

S

Sarah 02:02

Okay, that makes the video calls I struggle with seem incredibly primitive. So who exactly are they reflecting for? I mean, who needs this kind of instant Cosmic Connection? Who are these messages going to great question. This is where we meet the big players of the super universes, the rulers what the Urantia Book calls the ancients of days. Ancients of days, okay? They have this crazy important role, sort of positioned between us striving evolving worlds and the perfection of paradise, Paradise.

J

John 02:14

S

Sarah 02:30

I feel like that could be a whole deep dive on its own. Oh, absolutely okay. But for now, I'm picturing these ancients of days, like, I don't know, these incredibly wise beings overseeing these insanely vast domains, exactly.

J

John 02:43

But like any good ruler, they can't be everywhere at once, right? Makes sense? That's where our living mirror, friends, the second of him come in. Ah, I see where you're going with this. They act like the ancients of days, eyes and ears instantaneously reflecting information from all corners of their domains. Think about it, the ancients of days, they need to make decisions that affect countless worlds. And the sycanophym, they provide the Intel, the insights, to make sure those decisions are, you know, wise and informed. That makes a lot of sense. Now, you mentioned the Urantia Book goes even deeper, talking about different types of sycanophym. Like, what's with these distinctions? Is it like Angel hierarchy, 101? Or some kind of film, I don't know, senior management or something. It's funny.

S

Sarah 03:11

J

John 03:26

You should say that the text does focus on three main orders, primary, secondary and tertiary. Sycanophym, okay, okay. But before you go picturing some angelic pecking order, it's not about rank or like, who's got the fanciest Halo?

S

Sarah 03:38

Okay, good to know. So what's the deal with these primary sycanophen? Then what sets them apart?

J John 03:43

These are the sycanophym in direct service to the ancients of days. Think about the kind of information a ruler of a super universe needs. Each type of primary sycanophy is like a specialized channel reflecting a different aspect of the cosmos. Right? To them, specialized channels. Okay, that has my attention. Can you give me an example, absolutely.

S Sarah 03:58

J John 04:02

Let's talk about the voices of the conjoined actor. Morale. The conjoined actor is this incredible force, this manifestation of the Infinite Spirit that connects everything in the universe. Oh, yeah, right, the ultimate unifier, exactly. Well, these particular sycanophym, they can reflect the mind of the conjoined actor directly to the ancients of days. Just imagine having access to that kind of wisdom, that Universal Consciousness instantly. It's mind boggling to think about

S Sarah 04:12

J John 04:15

S Sarah 04:28

Whoa. That's the next level. So you're saying the ancients of days have a direct line to like the universe's most powerful intuition. Talk about cosmic cheating. What other channels? What other subtypes do these primary sycanophym offer?

J John 04:41

Well, there's the sycanophy that reflect the collective mind of the seven master spirits. That's a lot of wisdom and guidance to tap into, right? But it gets even more interesting.

S Sarah 04:51

Okay, you said interesting. And now I gotta know what could be more intriguing than like listening in on the master spirits conference call.

J John 04:59
How about. Tapping into the mind of a creator son.

S Sarah 05:02
A creator son. Okay, hold on now, this is connecting to something else I've been wondering about with the Urantia Book, the whole deal with Jesus. Does this mean, are you saying, like hanafim, could even reflect the mind of Jesus?

J John 05:14
You're right, Jesus, or as the Urantia Book refers to him, Jesus of Nazareth, is considered a creator son, but let's maybe save that fascinating detail for another deep dive. Shall we? Okay, okay,

S Sarah 05:26
fair enough, I see you've successfully piqued my curiosity. We will circle back to that. But it's not just like individual beings. They reflect, right? You mentioned something before about the voice of the angelic hoax.

J John 05:36
Exactly these economist they reflect the like, the sentiments, the perspectives of the entire angelic realm, the whole shebang, the whole shebang. It's like a direct line to the collective wisdom and experience of all angels everywhere. It really makes you appreciate the scale of organization, of communication that must exist at these higher levels of the cosmos. So we've got a film reflecting the conjoint actor, the master spirits, creator, sons, even the entire angelic realm. Is there anything these primary sycanophym don't reflect,

S Sarah 05:50

J John 06:09
you know, it's not all cosmic heart to hearts and deep thoughts. Oh, so it's not all just channeling the universe's greatest hits. What else is there?

S Sarah 06:13

John 06:17

Well, some primary sycanophym. They're more about keeping the super universe running smoothly. Like, think of them as the cosmic administrators. Maybe, okay, so it's not all just vibes and insights. What kind of like cosmic administration are we talking about?

Sarah 06:26

John 06:31

Let's take the broadcast receivers, for example. They're interesting because they add this whole other layer of context. I guess you could say to the reflection process, like, imagine receiving a thought or a feeling from 1000s of light years away, right? How you even know it's accurate, or what it really means in the grand scheme of things, right? Right? It's like, what's the context Exactly? And that's where the broadcast receivers come in. They synchronize those reflected visions with like actual messages being said across the universe. So they're like cosmic fact checkers exactly, making sure everything lines up, that the ancients of days aren't getting a, you know, a skewed picture of what's going on.

Sarah 07:09

It's like quality control for cosmic consciousness. I like it. Okay, so we've got the reflectors and the fact checkers. What other essential cosmic services are these primary sycanophym providing?

John 07:21

Well, have you ever wondered about how beings actually get around in this super universe? Yeah. I mean, we're talking about unimaginable distances. Okay, yeah.

Sarah 07:29

Now that you mention it, it's got to be more complicated than just like hopping on a cosmic bus, right?

John 07:33

More complicated is an understatement. This is where the transport personalities come in. Okay?

S

Sarah 07:38

Now this is what I'm talking about, cosmic, Uber, angelic airlines. Who are they transporting? And where are they going? Think bigger.

J

John 07:48

We're talking about transporting beings, and this includes us, ascending mortals, by the way, between different spheres of existence within the super universe. Wait, hold on. Back up, ascending mortals like me, you're saying, as I progress on my spiritual journey, I might get a ride from the second of him. It's all part of the plan. Okay, that is both exciting and slightly terrifying at the same time, I might need to pack some cosmic drama meme. Okay, so we've got the sycanophym who are reflecting the universe's wisdom. We've got the ones making sure that information is accurate, and then we've got the ones making sure everyone gets where they need to go. Is that all of the primary sakhana femme, or is there another type? Well,

S

Sarah 07:57

J

John 08:31

there's one more group we should talk about,

S

Sarah 08:32

the reserve corps. The reserve corps. What do they do? Think of them as the cosmic utility players you know, ready to step in wherever and whenever they're needed. They might not have a specialized role like the others, but their adaptability makes them crucial the super universe. It's a dynamic place. Things are always happening, and sometimes you need those beings who can handle anything, right? The ones who can roll with the punches, adapt to any situation exactly. They're

J

John 08:35

S

Sarah 08:53

J

John 08:57

the ultimate problem solvers, the ones who maintain balance and order when things get, you know, a little chaotic. It's like the universe has its own angelic rapid response team. I like it. So just to be clear, we've been talking about the primary secondafin This whole time, right? But I know the Urantia Book also mentions secondary and tertiary Sakana film is this like a ranking system. Are the tertiary saccanophym Bringing cosmic coffee to the primaries? No, no, not at all. Remember, we talked about this earlier. It's not about one being better than the other. It's more like different branches of service, each with its own unique contribution to the cosmos. Okay, so if it's not a ranking system, what are these other sycanophym up to? What are their roles? Well, the secondary second of them, they're all about wisdom, guidance, and even you could say cosmic judgment. Cosmic

S

Sarah 09:03

J

John 09:26

S

Sarah 09:36

J

John 09:40

S

Sarah 09:46

judgment. That sounds kind of intense a little bit,

J

John 09:50

but it's not like, you know you've been naughty, go to your room, kind of judgment. Okay, that's good to know. It's more about aligning with the universe's highest principles. These. They work with some pretty amazing beings called perfectors of wisdom, divine counselors and universal censors. Okay, those titles alone sound incredibly important. So are this akan FM reflecting these principles to us, or are they reflecting on us, like reporting back to this cosmic Council? I think it's safe to say it's a bit of both. Let's take the voices of wisdom, for instance. They're a type of secondary sycanophym, and get this, they can tap into the living libraries of paradise, living libraries. Okay? Now, that sounds incredible, right? Imagine all the knowledge accumulated since like the dawn of creation, just waiting to be accessed. And these sycanophym, they can access it instantly and reflected outward. It's like having the universe's greatest encyclopedia at your fingertips.

S

Sarah 10:07

J

John 10:17

S

Sarah 10:28

J

John 10:32

S

Sarah 10:44

That's amazing. But then there's also that whole judgment aspect, right? Like, what about those universal sensors you mentioned? How do they factor into all of this?

J

John 10:51

Well, alongside them, you have the discerners of spirits.

S

Sarah 10:56

Discerners of spirits, that sounds a little ominous. What do they do?

J

John 10:59

They can, well, they can basically see right through you, into your very soul. They can perceive your true motives, your deepest intentions. There's no hiding from these guys. Nope, not really. It kind of makes you think you know, if these saccanophym can reflect the highest ideals of truth and wisdom, and at the same time, they can see right through us, it's almost like they're holding up a mirror to our souls, right, encouraging us to become more aligned with those divine principles. Okay, yeah, you've officially freaked me out. Now, so how about we move on to the last group, the tertiary sycanophym. What are they all about?

S

Sarah 11:27

J John 11:34

Now, this is where things get really interesting for us as ascending mortals. Okay, I'm listening while the primary sycanophy They're serving the ancients of days. And the secondary sycanophym are working with these, you know, these magnificent beings upholding these cosmic principles. The tertiary sycanophym are directly involved in guiding and supporting us on our individual journeys to paradise. Okay, so they're like our personal cosmic mentors. Sign me up. How do they help us?

S Sarah 11:55

J John 12:00

Well, you know how the ancients of days, they occupy that space between the evolving worlds and Paradise, the tertiary sycanophym, they're closely aligned with another group of beings who are in many ways even closer to us on our evolutionary path, the trinitized Sons of attainment. Trinitized

S Sarah 12:18

Sons of attainment. That's a mouthful, okay? Break it down for me. Who are they? Think of them as beings who have, you know, they've already walked the path. They've gone through the different stages of spiritual growth, and now they're dedicated to helping others do the same. The trinitized part that refers to the fact that they've achieved this, like, really profound level of unity with the divine.

J John 12:24

S Sarah 12:39

Ah, okay, so they've reached the top of the mountain, and now they're like, come on up. The view is amazing, exactly.

J John 12:44

And the tertiary second of them, they work alongside them, reflecting unique aspects of that ascension process for us to learn from. Okay,

S Sarah 12:51

now this is where I get really curious. What are these aspects? What are these insights they're reflecting for us?

reflecting for us:

J John 12:57

It's like, you know how when you're on a journey, and not just any journey, but like a journey of spiritual understanding. Yeah, the tertiary second of them are like those, those seasoned travelers, okay, the ones who've been down this path before, and they're reflecting back to us the, I don't know, the things that might otherwise take us lifetimes to figure out on our own. So like, no more wrong turns on the cosmic path, something like that. Okay, I like the sound of that. Give me an example. What's one of these? Like, essential insights, what's something they help us understand, think about the idea of origins. We often get caught up in, you know, where we're going, our goals. But the Urantia Book, it emphasizes the importance of where we've been. And there's actually a type of tertiary sicanam called the significance of origins. The significance of origins, yeah, and they reflect this very truth, reminding us that our origins, like where we come from, our unique journey up to this point, it all plays a crucial role in our growth. It shapes who we are, what we're drawn to, even the challenges we face.

S Sarah 13:20

J John 13:30

S Sarah 14:00

It's like that saying you can't know where you're going until you know where you've been exactly.

J John 14:04

And these sicanaphum, they help us connect those dots. You know, see the value in all those past experiences, even the tough ones, as part of our own individual path.

S Sarah 14:14

I like that. It's very validating. Okay, what else? What else do these cosmic mentors help us understand let's talk about mercy. I mean, we all make mistakes, right? The Urantia Book, it talks about this incredible compassion, this forgiveness that's just woven into the fabric of the cosmos, yeah?

J John 14:20

incredible compassion, this forgiveness that's just woven into the fabric of the cosmos, yeah? And there are actually tertiary psychophym called the memory of mercy. The memory of mercy, yeah? And their whole purpose is to keep track of every act of mercy and grace that's ever been extended to us. Oh, wow, yeah, they remind us that even when we stumble, we're loved unconditionally and we're supported on our journey.

S

Sarah 14:48

That is so reassuring. Oh my gosh. Okay, so we've got origins, we've got mercy. Anything else? What other principles are they reflecting for us? Well, there's one that I think my. Particularly resonate with you, given your interest in expanding your understanding of the cosmos. Okay, Lay it on me. The Urantia Book talks about the import of time.

J

John 14:58

S

Sarah 15:07

The import of time, okay? I mean, I'm always trying to be more mindful of my time, so I'm intrigued. Are these Sakana femme like the cosmic time management gurus?

J

John 15:17

You could say that, yeah. But really, what they do is they remind us that in this grand, cosmic scheme of things, we have all the time we need. Okay, they reflect this idea that time is a gift, you know, that it's an opportunity for growth and evolution. And I think sometimes we get so caught up in the the urgency of our day to day lives that we forget to kind of zoom out and embrace that larger perspective. Yeah, yeah. And that's what they help us do.

S

Sarah 15:41

It's like they're saying, don't sweat the small stuff. You've got an eternity to get it right.

J

John 15:46

Exactly they help us trust the process, knowing that we're exactly where we need to be in each moment. I like them already. Okay, so we've got origins, mercy, time. What else? What other profound wisdom are these tertiary Sakana FEM reflecting to us, well, as we progress on our spiritual journey, there's a lot of talk about trust, trusting the universe, trusting our intuition, but also being considered trustworthy by these higher beings, you know, yeah. And there's actually a type of tertiary second of them called the solemnity of trust. And they embody this very principle, solemnity of trust. Okay, that sounds pretty serious. What makes trust such a, I don't know, a weighty matter on a cosmic level.

S

Sarah 15:52

J John 16:02

S Sarah 16:20

J John 16:29

Well, it highlights the, I don't know, the incredible responsibility that comes with free will. I guess. Yeah, we have the power to make choices, right? Yeah. And those choices, they don't just affect us, they affect others, they affect the cosmos itself. And these second of them, they kind of remind us of that, that every choice matters, that we're part of something so much bigger than ourselves. It's like they're saying, hey, no pressure, but the fate of the universe kind of hinges on your decisions, right?

S Sarah 16:48

J John 16:54

But in a way, it's true. It's about recognizing that, that our actions have these ripple effects, you know, and encouraging us to act with integrity and wisdom,

S Sarah 17:05

it really makes you think about trust in a whole new way, like not just trust with other people, but trust with the universe itself

J John 17:12

Exactly. And remember, they're not just reflecting this principle for us. They're reflecting on us. Oh, right, right. So it's like imagine them as these cosmic witnesses to our choices, you know, and they're showing the universe how trustworthy we are.

S

Sarah 17:26

Okay, yeah, no, that's a thought. So we're learning to be trustworthy. What happens next? What other cosmic lessons are in store for us? Well, I think once we start demonstrating that trustworthiness, it opens up even greater possibilities for service, right? And that's where the sanctity of service comes in these second of them, they help us understand that true fulfillment. It doesn't come from, you know, what we acquire or achieve for ourselves. It comes from using our unique gifts and talents to contribute to something larger. So it's not enough to just be trustworthy. It's about what we actually do with that trust. Exactly.

J

John 17:33

S

Sarah 17:54

J

John 17:59

It's about aligning our actions with something, you know, a higher purpose, seeing the inherent sacredness and serving others. That's beautiful. Okay, so you've got origins, mercy, time, trust, service, anything else. Are we missing any key principles here?

S

Sarah 18:07

J

John 18:15

The last two are interesting because they kind of like they work together. You have the secret of greatness and then the soul of goodness,

S

Sarah 18:22

Secret of greatness. Okay, I'm listening. I'm ready to unlock my full potential here, right?

J

John 18:26

But it's not really a secret, of course. It's more like the sycaanthem. They're showing us that true greatness, it's inherently linked to goodness. Okay? They're highlighting this idea that the more we cultivate that divine goodness within ourselves, the more that greatness can naturally flow through our actions. So it's like an inside out kind of thing. You cultivate the goodness and the greatness just kind of naturally follow exactly. And it's not about, you know, seeking recognition or praise, right? It's about, it's about reflecting this, like quiet dignity, I guess, yeah, a life lived in service to something greater than ourselves.

 Sarah 18:42

 John 18:47

 Sarah 19:03

This is all so incredibly powerful, but I gotta ask, you know, if these tertiary sakanaferm are so involved in our progress, does this mean we actually get to, like, meet them at some point?

 John 19:13

Well, think about it. The Urantia Book talks about us as ascending mortals. We're gonna journey through this super universe right on our way to Paradise. And all signs point to the fact that these tertiary sicanos film, they're going to play a more and more active role in our lives, guiding us, teaching us, helping us navigate all those you know, the challenges and the triumphs of growing spiritually.

 Sarah 19:36

Wow to think that we might actually get to like interact with these beings, these beings of such wisdom and compassion, it's kind of mind blowing.

 John 19:44

It really is, and it just speaks to how interconnected everything is in the cosmos. We're not alone on this journey, and that, my friend, is a very comforting thought. I have to say, this entire deep dive into the Sakana film has totally changed my perspective. I went from picturing angels with harps to. Cosmic mentors, reflecting the universe's deepest wisdom. It's quite a shift, isn't it? It really is, yeah,

 Sarah 19:49

 John 20:06

John 20:00

but I think that's the beauty of the Urantia Book. It challenges us to expand our understanding of ourselves, of the cosmos in ways that we could never have imagined before,

Sarah 20:14

100% it really makes you wonder, what other incredible beings, what other mind blowing concepts are out there waiting for us to discover exactly, and who knows what we'll discover about ourselves along the way, right?

John 20:23

Sarah 20:26

Well said, Until our next deep dive into the Urantia Book, everyone keep looking up, keep asking questions and keep an open mind.
